

Voices and Choices Center Archives (Pre-2008)

Not necessarily reflective of current Rohrbach Library policies

The Voices and Choices Gallery is an alcove area located on the second floor of the library in the old wing opposite Room 208. The size of the alcove is approximately twenty feet by fifteen feet and exhibits space can extend beyond it some fifteen feet. The Gallery when enveloped in an exhibit excites curiosity. Once engaged at a viewing, display or, discussion a user may be curious enough to seek other resources on topics showcased.

Participation in gallery events are moments to witness the diversity of expressions, interests, points of views, values...represented at the university and around the world. There are opportunities for students to take leadership roles in planning, leading, or reporting on gallery activities, to employ critical thinking skills when responding in writing or in dialogue with others assessing an activity, to refine personal positions on issues affecting their lives, to discover new information, and ultimately gain knowledge.
