ARU 541: TEACHING CONTEMPORARY ART ISSUES: BOOK ARTS AS SOCIAL ACTIVISM

July 27 – 30, 2020 Workshop
July 20 – August 7, 2020 Online Class

In this workshop, participants will create a variety of traditional and non-traditional book forms to express a current social justice topic relevant to their own lived experience. Bookmaking will become a catalyst for developing lessons using book structures to provide learners opportunities to express voice and choice in making and presenting. Participants will use the online platform of the course to engage in dialogue and reflective exercises on what it means to continually grow as a culturally relevant educator. The institute will include a field trip, interactive presentations, guest book artist & and studio encounters.

STUDY INSTITUTE PROGRAM:
The Institute will meet in Sharadin 114 beginning Monday, July 27th at 8:30am and will end Thursday, July 30th at 4:00pm. The course will run 8:30-5:00 each day, ending at 4:00pm on the last day. We will visit the book arts special collection at Lafayette College in Easton, work with a guest book artist and spend ample time in the studio creating a variety of book structures. Additional online course work will begin one week prior on July 20th and course work will end August 7th. Please note that the institute is limited to 15 participants. Limited enrollment for ACT 48 non-credit students.

GRADUATE CREDIT
Participants interested in earning graduate credit may opt to enroll in the corresponding online course. Coursework will extend through online instruction beyond the dates of the workshop.

INSTITUTE FACULTY:
Dr. Amy Pfeiler-Wunder, Institute Coordinator is a Professor of Art Education at Kutztown University and Coordinator of the Masters of Art Education Graduate program. She received her Ph.D. in teaching and learning-art from the University of Iowa. Prior to joining higher education she taught for thirteen years with pre-K-9th graders in various settings. She presents her research extensively at regional, state, national, and international conferences. Her work examines the impact of intersectionality on one’s professional identity with keen attention to views of the learners and curriculum design. In addition, she explores transdisciplinary studies ability to dissolve hierarchical boundaries between disciplines illuminating the transformative power of integration. Her research has been published in books and journals. Additionally, she is active in the National Art Education Association as the Higher Education Division Representative on the NAEA Research Commission and as the Higher Education Division Director on the NAEA Board of Directors. In 2017, she received the Outstanding Higher Education Art Educator Award from PAEA.
