Dr. Julia Hovanec
July 11th through July 14th - Onsite workshop
July 17th through August 7th - Online class

Artists, students, and art education professionals are invited to come grow with us! This institute will help you unlock the creative potential of those around you while expanding your own foundation. You will engage in exercises and strategies as you, your colleagues, and your students conquer the usual obstacles to creativity. Through art making, you will gain the concrete skills, knowledge, and dispositions necessary to help you learn from mistakes, get unstuck, and unearth brilliance. Acquire the means and attitudes to produce new ideas, disrupt repetitions, and take imaginative jumps in teaching, learning, making, and leading. The shared content and strategies are appropriate for and adaptable to all ages, Pre-K through adult learners. The institute will feature workshops, projects, presenters, and a field trip, all designed to inspire and rejuvenate creativity. The onsite workshop will take place July 11th through July 14th and offers Act 48 credits for completion. An optional 3-credit asynchronous online course, July 17th through August 7th, will build on the work from the institute and further explore ways to grow creativity.
