

Communication Studies students and faculty participate in regional undergraduate research conference.

Congratulations to the following Communication Studies students and their sponsoring faculty for their acceptance and presentation of their research at the 21st Annual Undergraduate Research and Creativity Conference. The virtual conference will be held Saturday, April 18th. Daniel Hamm's presentation will be presented live at 2:15 (see link below). Abigail Greco's and Emmeline Knowlan's presentations can be viewed virtual by clicking on the title of their research below. Great work from our students and the commitment of our faculty make all of us in the Communication Department proud!
